Based on the critically acclaimed book by Pulitzer Prize winning author Richard Rhodes and written and directed by Professor Giuseppe M. Fazari, Why They Kill is a feature length documentary about the work of renowned criminologist, Professor Lonnie H. Athens. Drawing on painstakingly gathered life histories of hundreds of violent criminals, Athens' groundbreaking theories place violent acts and the actors who commit them in the context of social interactions.

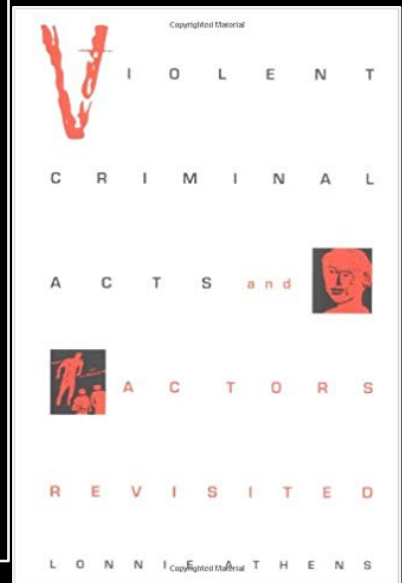

The film is a must see for anyone seeking to deeply understand and effectively address the most bedeviling aspect of human experience.

"You find yourself both surprised by some of its conclusions and mesmerized by its narrative."
The New York Times

"The most far-reaching, provocative, and profound analysis of violent conduct to be found."
 Norman K. Denzin

"It is truly a pioneering and rewarding effort"
 Herbert Blumer
